Dear Sirs:

I would like to compliment you on the construction of your 1957 Ford Galaxie. Not that the car runs good, it just that it suits my purpose. One of the best things about the car is that the car doors stick so tight that only I can upopen them. This is fine because it keeps my date in the car!

The second thing I like about the car is the faulty electrical system. Now, this may seem like a gripe but it isn't. Everytime I get on a ~~maximum~~ rocky, undeserted road, the lights go off. Now when i'm with my date this is just fine, beca7se it saves my the effort of doing it myself.

But the most important, and I do mean important, qualty your cars have is the way it guzzles gas. This means I can drive around with date for about one-half an hour and suddenly be out of gas. Now with a date you know what a big stroke of good fortune this can be!

So, I say Keep Up The Good Luck, I maen Work.

Sincerely yours

Jimmy Thoma

P.S. I also like the bad shock absorbers. This means everytime I hit a chug-hole, my date has to hang on to me for support. Obay, Obay, obay, obay, etc.
